8 March 2018

7th Enforce Tac reconfirms top quality level

Enforce Tac, the international trade fair for command, control and operational equipment used by security agencies, was held on 7-8 March 2018 and once again brought together suppliers of equipment for law enforcement and representatives of public agencies from all around the world. Its seventh edition attracted 242 exhibitors and more than 3,500 trade visitors and participants to the European Police Trainer Conference at the Exhibition Centre Nuremberg. Enforce Tac is an annual event, and was once again under the patronage of Joachim Herrmann, Bavaria's Minister for the Interior.

“Enforce Tac has a profile especially tailored to the needs of the police, and it encourages the sharing of information between representatives of the authorities and the industry,” commented Herrmann. That is why he considers it an excellent platform for professional exchanges on the latest developments, techniques and technologies for improved security. Herrmann is particularly pleased that the event has been long held in Bavaria: “Of all the states in Germany, Bavaria enjoys the greatest level of security by far – there could be no better venue for a top-level security exhibition.” Enforce Tac and U.T.SEC – Unmanned Technologies & Security – Expo & Conference, held in Nuremberg in parallel, also offered Herrmann (CSU) the opportunity to meet with his counterparts from Thuringia and Saarland, Georg Maier (SPD) and Klaus Bouillon (CDU).

The focus of Enforce Tac is on the exhibition segments represented by service weapons and ammunition, ballistic accessories, optics and optronics, uniforms – e.g. stab-proof and bulletproof vests, shields and helmets – and vehicles. The highly specialised range of products and services from the exhibitors is perfectly complemented by the conference programme of the European Police Trainer Conference held by Polizeitrainer in Deutschland e.V. (Police Trainers in Germany, PiD). The conference looks at the latest subjects of interest for the police service, bringing together theory and practice, equipment and application. As a special fair for trade visitors from official agencies, access to Enforce Tac is restricted, and participants must provide credentials in the form of an official identity card or written confirmation from a security authority.
