PRESS RELEASE

May 2020

BIOFACH WORLD – Quarterly News Update Vol. II 2020

- BIOFACH Nuremberg kicks off the year
- New dates for BIOFACH World events in 2020 and 2021

Since the beginning of the year, current events have disrupted the international trade fair calendar. BIOFACH World has not been entirely spared either. With BIOFACH, the World's Leading Trade Fair for Organic Food in Nuremberg, and another six events around the globe, BIOFACH World has been successfully connecting organic experts worldwide for decades. The "organic year" began with BIOFACH in Nuremberg. Due to current circumstances, some BIOFACH World events that were supposed to take place in the spring were postponed. For example, BIOFACH JAPAN could not take place as planned in March 2020 but was deferred till 2021. BIOFACH CHINA and BIOFACH AMERICA LATINA will also take place at a later date this year. The organic sector can also look forward to BIOFACH AMERICA and BIOFACH INDIA this autumn.

"Especially in times like these, topics such as health, conscious and healthy nutrition and a balanced lifestyle are shifting into focus. The worldwide demand for organic food is growing steadily, and many people are currently developing awareness for healthy, fair-traded and ecological products," says Markus Reetz, Executive Director International Exhibitions at NürnbergMesse. "We want to offer the worldwide organic sector a platform, so we are currently working hard towards a successful execution of the next BIOFACH World and NATURAL EXPO FAMILY events," Reetz continues.

BIOFACH AMERICA

America is very important for the organic sector as it represents the world's largest market for organic products. BIOFACH AMERICA offers manufacturers and suppliers the opportunity to get to know the North American market and to make and consolidate new contacts and important trading relationships. The trade fair will take place in Philadelphia for the first time in 2020 alongside the Natural Products Expo East. The combined event has a lot to offer: special display areas like the "Organic Park" or "Hemp Pavilion", national pavilions e.g. from Bulgaria, Argentina and Poland, and a comprehensive supporting programme to complement the exhibits. The two fairs will be accompanied by a conference programme directed at manufacturers, retailers, investors and sub-suppliers. As well as various events like the Community Breakfast or Diversity in Naturals networking session, the congress offers participants comprehensive insights into the current organic market. It's where local and international experts from the organic sector will discuss and learn about trends, developments and challenges.
