This time round, the event consisting of the MedtecLIVE exhibition and MedTech Summit congress will take place from 31 March to 2 April 2020, two months earlier than in the previous year. Interested companies can benefit from an attractive early booking discount until 30 September 2019. As well as the exhibition, trade visitors can also enjoy a high-calibre supporting programme. Among other things it will once again feature the start-up contest, which was held for the first time in 2019 and was very popular with the international trade fair audience.

Interested companies can benefit from an early booking discount

In 2019, the exhibition for the manufacture of medical technology was a big hit with exhibitors, industry associations and visitors. "Many of the exhibiting companies from MedtecLIVE 2019 have expressed a strong interest in taking part again in 2020. The industry is very much behind this top-class event," says Alexander Stein, Director of MedtecLIVE at NürnbergMesse. Companies can still enjoy an early booking discount for display area until 30 September 2019.

Focus on entire medical technology supply chain

"Connecting the Medical Technology Supply Chain" is the theme of the second round of MedtecLIVE 2020, which presents the entire supply chain for the sector. It's where representatives from the development and procurement fields, regulatory bodies, sales, marketing and R&D departments come to talk shop and make direct contact with decision-makers
