The topic of her address: “Attacks of the Industry: A View into the Future of Cybersecurity”.

Polish national Paula Januszkiewicz is one of the most high-profile international IT security experts. As the founder and managing director of CQURE Inc., she shares her expertise with the IT security community and provides advice to clients all over the world. Januszkiewicz has received the Enterprise Security MVP (Microsoft Most Valuable Professional) accolade and is one of the few people worldwide to have access to a source code of Windows. She has been the keynote speaker at well-known symposia and developer conferences e.g. in the USA, Asia and the Middle East. #### Tips for greater IT security in companies and organisations

In her special keynote address, Paula Januszkiewicz will explore the question of which vulnerabilities and often faulty configurations in complex IT infrastructures jeopardise the confidentiality, integrity and availability of data. She shows possible gateways for espionage or sabotage and provides tips for an effective improvement of IT security in companies and organisations.

In this context she explains, for example, how Cloud solutions like Office 365, Azure or Amazon Web Services can be classified in respect of security and answers the question about when is it worthwhile migrating services to the Cloud from a security standpoint.
