

IWA Knife Award 2024

The independent jury selected nine finalists from all submissions, which were on display at the BLADE Demo Area during IWA.

The winners in category "Innovation"

1. Place: Fox Knives: Metamorphosis

The Fox FX-556-A1 "Metamorphosis" lives up to its name. It is versatile and changeable, especially if you are willing and able to reconfigure your knife again and again. With Fox's ingenious radius lock mechanism at its center, different blade shapes, handle materials and spacers in various colors can be combined to create a different knife every time. Timascus, titanium, aluminum, carbon, Damascus steel, polished, sandblasted or PVD coated, the possibilities are extremely diverse. A real innovation for knife enthusiasts. The jury agreed and unanimously voted the Metamorphosis into first place.

2. Place: Mercury Logan mini

The Logan mini is a dainty, elegant folding knife that hides its true values on the inside. Unlike most folding knives, it does not have a continuous, bolted blade axis. Instead, this is integrated into the one-piece, i.e. "monolithic" titanium body and is therefore an integral part of the handle. Various blade and handle materials are available, in the picture is the version with black G10 handle scales and a blade made of Elmax mono steel. Damascus versions are also available.

3. Place: TB Outdoor

The French-based manufacturer of outdoor knives and supplier to the French military has surprised everyone with the "Impact 127" and sent a designer outdoor knife into the race for the IWA Knife Award. The result was convincing. It is a knife made of extremely corrosion-resistant MOX steel with a black coating. The dagger-like blade is designed to be convincing in both every day and outdoor use and can also be worn inconspicuously horizontally on the belt. This is thanks to the innovative sheath, which is an integral part of the concept and holds the knife securely in place with a strong magnet. Furthermore, the combination of knife and plastic sheath also has a lot to offer visually.
